

EVS at WAPOR conference

EVS participated in the 71^o WAPOR Conference in Marrakech (27-30 June 2018) with a panel, chaired by Vera Lomazzi and Ruud Luijkx, aimed at illustrating the most recent methodological innovations employed in EVS2017 together with some first substantive results from the most recent collected data. The panel proposed four presentations:

The European Values Study from 1981 to 2026: Methodological developments

Ruud Luijkx (Tilburg University), Vera Lomazzi (GESIS - Leibniz Institute for the Social Sciences)

Using Web Probing to Elucidate Respondents' Understanding of "Minorities" in Cross-Cultural Comparative Research

Michael Braun, Dorothee Behr, Katharina Meitinger, Klara Raiber (GESIS - Leibniz Institute for the Social Sciences)

Questions in context: location and order effects in the measurement of values

Alexandre Pollien, Michèle Ernst Stähli, Michael Ochsner, Patricia Milbert (FORS)

A Growing Educational Divide? Evidence from the Netherlands from 5 EVS Waves

Tim Reeskens, Inge Sieben, Loek Halman (Tilburg University)

Other members of EVS participated in different panels: Pablo Christmann from the German EVS team gave a presentation "How people evaluate democracy: An assessment of the effects of economic performance and quality of democracy on satisfaction with democracy"; and Ziva Broder, Simona Zavratnik, Rebeka Falle Zorman from the Slovenian EVS team gave the presentation "Public opinion and migration: the case study from Slovenian perspective.,,